

PRACTICE DIRECTION NO. 1 OF 2010

Hearing Applications For Interim Orders Under Part 4 Of The
*Domestic Violence And Protection Orders Act 2008

1. On 1 July 2010, the Court Procedures Rules 2006 were amended to allow for the Registrar, and any Deputy Registrar authorised by the Chief Magistrate, to exercise the power of the Court to make interim protection orders under the Domestic Violence and Protection Orders Act 2008, (see rule 6251).
2. The purpose of the change is to allow for a more efficient use of the Court's judicial resources, whilst recognising the need for these applications to be heard as quickly as the interests of justice allow.
3. This Practice Direction will commence on 23 July 2010.
4. The Registrar, or any authorised Deputy Registrar, will not exercise the jurisdiction of the Court with respect to applications falling within the ambit of this Practice Direction in circumstances where the making of an interim order will result in the exclusion of a respondent from property in which they hold a proprietary interest. In such cases the application for an interim order will be referred to a Magistrate for determination.
5. Further, in situations where an application for an interim order is refused by the Registrar (or authorised Deputy Registrar), the applicant will be entitled to renew their application before a Magistrate. It is anticipated that a renewed application will be heard by a Magistrate on the same day as the original application, wherever possible.
6. The Registrar and any authorised Deputy Registrar will have an obligation to advise an applicant where an application for an interim order is refused, of his/her entitlement to renew the application before a Magistrate, and to facilitate any such further application if that is requested.
7. Until a further notice amending this Practice Direction is published only the Registrar and the Deputy Registrar holding the position of Legal Manager (or anyone acting in these positions) will exercise the power delegated under rule 6251.

Dated July 2010

By direction of the Chief Magistrate and Magistrates
